Henny Penny

Our chicks and hatchlings have arrived. Three new chicks hatched in the first twenty four hours and the children are busy watching the unhatched eggs for cracks and tiny beaks poking through the shells. This week we are discussing the life cycle of a chicken, how to handle a chick, names for our chicks, different personalities of chicks and people. We are also talking about bullying, as this is something that can happen amongst chicks in the brooding pen.

Adoption of chicks

For those families that are interested in taking chicks home, yes, they are available for adoption after their time with us. I have placed some information regarding this on the sign in desk. They will need to be picked up late next week.

The Henny Penny website also contains some details.

Thank you to those who have given some money toward the cost of Henny Penny. There is a donation box on the sign in desk if you would still like to give.

Preps

Preps have completely settled into the service and are enjoying the array of toys, board games, construction and home corner equipment. Preps are also learning group games such as rob the nest; ship, shark, shore; good morning mister judge and red hot letter.

Recently we moved the grade two's into the older group for afternoon tea and homework time. We did this because the younger group has grown much larger than the older and it had become crowded at afternoon tea time as well as when playing games in the hall from 3:30 to 4pm. The change has evened out the two groups and allowed the grade two's to work on their homework as soon as they arrive at 3pm.

Buddy Leaders

Several of the Year One's have stepped up to be Buddy Leader's this term. They are taking the responsibility of setting up games in the hall and assisting the staff with running games very seriously. Special mention goes to Kayla O'Keefe who shows initiative and sets a great example to the other students

Thanks,
Frances and Team
