Art brings a community together

I am very proud to be associated with the Aspley Art Affair which is the first of its kind event hosted by the school. The overarching focus of the show is Sustainability which is a cross curriculum theme this year. Each child has produced a piece of artwork to take home dealing with an individual aspect of this important issue. One artist has been allocated to each year level and has delivered 2 (1 hour) lessons per class. They returned to work in the classroom with the children individually on a collaborative project to be auctioned at the art show. Collectively, these artists bring immense experience to our school. Not only with a diversity of creative techniques but also an awareness of environmental issues within their individual practices. They bring to the children an enriching artistic experience which involves factual knowledge, practical skills and fosters their ability for creative thought. The outcomes will be used as a curriculum assessment for each year level and provide teachers with additional knowledge of art materials and techniques applicable to a classroom setting.

All this work will culminate in a special Aspley Art Affair event to be held in the school hall on Friday October 20. 6:30 - 8:30 pm. where all art pieces will be on display.

In a celebration of the arts and our unique environment, we are thrilled to offer this special event to parents and children free of charge. The night will include light refreshments served by our senior students and beautiful music provided by professional musicians from the Queensland Symphony Orchestra. The evening will conclude with the auction of our magnificent collaborative art pieces which will raise money for the school to continue with future creative projects.
